

CASE STUDY:

NRL Group Limited Reducing operational and legal costs while providing a defensible eDiscovery solution

COMPANY PROFILE

NRL Group Limited is a leading recruitment firm with multiple operations and offices in the United Kingdom. They invest in state of the art systems and information technology, which facilitates growth through a wide range of industries nationwide, such as Aerospace, Chemical, Construction, Defense, Nuclear, Oil & Gas, Pharmaceutical, Telecommunications and Utilities. With proactive recruitment tactics in a number of different fields, NRL provides a strong reputation for integrity and openness through a client-focused service.

SUMMARY

While searching for vendors to help them migrate their legacy archives to Enterprise Vault, they were referred to Globanet for their expertise in archive migrations and implementation of Veritas solutions. Through initial consultation, Globanet identified the need for NRL to migrate their Enterprise Vault on-premise archives to Enterprise Vault.cloud. This type of data migration would move all of the desired data from the EV archive into Enterprise Vault.cloud.

CHALLENGES

- 1. Completing the migration to Enterprise Vault. cloud without negatively impacting the daily operations of NRL employees, specifically their bandwidth and access to system resources
- 2. Assisting the migration, while still maintaining chain of custody on their on their existing records

GLOBANET MIGRATE MEETS THE CHALLENGE

Through the use of Globanet Migrate, Globanet's data migration product, specifically designed from the ground up for archive migrations, NRL Group Limited was able to smoothly transition their legacy archives to a purely hosted service with little software and absolutely no hardware. The extraction of the on-premise archive data and loading of that data to the cloud solution was accurately translated without reducing bandwidth or system resources through precise data migration phases. Globanet Migrate was also able to uphold and preserve the chain of custody on NRL's existing records, which was an underlying factor in why NRL chose Globanet as a solution provider.

BENEFITS

NRL Group Limited acquired numerous benefits through the use of Globanet products and consulting expertise. The ability to move into Enterprise Vault.cloud allowed the company to store and index a variety of correspondence types through a searchable online repository. This key feature not only accelerates legal and HR inquiries, but preserves emails for lawsuits and legal holds, as an eDiscovery service. Enterprise Vault.cloud improved overall operations, has no mailbox size limit for end users and requires minimal maintenance. Globanet Migrate supports multiple data types through a seamless process that ensures chain of custody. The NRL team was extremely pleased with Globanet's rich reporting and dedication to completing the migration in an efficient and accurate manner. Paul Murphy, IT Director at NRL Group Limited stated "Globanet did exactly what we needed them to do, and were able to successfully migrate all the required archives into Enterprise Vault.cloud in a seamless and efficient manner. We wish more consulting firms operated in the same manner as Globanet with accuracy and professionalism. I would definitely recommend them for data migrations and would work with them again."

CONCLUSION

NRL Group Limited is now protected from on-premise disasters, and has greatly reduced the risk of losing data through rapid recovery of the product. As an expert solution provider, Globanet's services require a predictable and flat service fee with low up-front investment and total cost of ownership. The operational costs of the company will be positively impacted through the course of time by the effectiveness of Enterprise Vault.cloud and its eDiscovery preparedness. The NRL Group is one example that correlates with thousands of other scenarios that companies struggle with to find a resolution for. It is imperative for companies of all sizes to strategically identify their archiving needs, while also ensuring a cost-effective way to securely administer such processes. Globanet's products and consulting services are exemplary models for securely managing and migrating company data.
